

The proposal to place wide band digital services on power lines will destroy the ability of amateur radio operators to provide emergency services on 1.8 to 30 mhz. We have enough trouble with spark gap interference from power lines without this additional interference designed to cover the entire low frequency radio spectrum.